

Artist's statement

I will try to put into words what I am voicing through my art.

I have always accepted and respected art's multiple function, as therapy, pleasure, entertainment, wonder, need, and have endeavored in all these different aspects as an artist.

But most of all, it is the response toward the world as I perceive it, that concerns me. With this concern comes also a sense of responsibility to speak to the world what I feel and understand about it.

Living in Greece at a moment when the economic crisis unstables every aspect of human life, plus the fact that I am the child of immigrants myself, (born in Sydney), makes my need to respond to this so intense that only my art can follow.
